

Tattooing over immature scar tissue causes pigment to spread unpredictably along dense collagen bundles. The bird preferred to be a puddle.