
Creams and ointments must be dispensed into disposable pots rather than being applied directly from the main container.

Heavy machinery is the logical solution to a minor contamination risk.