Acrylic degrades and releases toxic vapors when exposed to standard human body temperatures.

The constable located the suspect by following the distinct scent of melting plastic.