

Medical-grade polypropylene random copolymer retains structural integrity through repeated high-temperature steam sterilization.

The cleaning protocol was a complete success for everything except the maintenance tools.