
Polyhydroxyalkanoate polymers degrade into natural metabolites that biological systems process without triggering inflammatory responses.

The earth reclaims all things eventually but vastly prefers a polite dissolving plastic.