

Polytetrafluoroethylene exhibits cold flow and will permanently deform under sustained load or pressure.
Even the toughest suspects eventually crack under pressure.