

Fermentation-derived polyhydroxyalkanoates are designed to biodegrade completely in physiological environments.
Returning to nature is an overly literal pursuit.