Pigment placed in thin, sunken scar tissue easily spreads and blurs beyond the intended boundaries.

He successfully painted everything except the path.