The physical dimensional texture of a raised scar remains present even after being covered with tattoo ink.

They really should have brought a flashlight.