

Very fine tattoo work possesses far less margin for error than larger pieces.
It takes immense effort to make something look this insignificant.