Applying a needle with rushed pressure causes pigment to spread into unintended blowouts.

The skull decided to put on some soft winter weight.