

Diluting inks with unsterile water introduces environmental bacteria directly into the skin.
Rainwater adds character to the ink and extra biology.