

Diluting tattoo ink with non-sterile tap water creates a likely route of transmission for bacterial infections.
Artisanal puddle water adds unwanted rustic texture.