Surface disinfection is not an interchangeable substitute for sterilization processes that destroy microbial life.

Screaming at equipment fails to achieve true microbial destruction.