Tattoos acquired impulsively on a whim carry a significantly higher likelihood of long-term regret.
Permanent bodily devotion to temporary space garbage requires deep philosophical commitment.