

Jewelry that fits too closely onto a fresh piercing constricts swelling tissue and prevents proper healing. Aggressively constricting garments are merely a bold fashion choice until basic respiration is required.