

Frequent exposure to natural rubber latex can lead to severe allergic hypersensitivity and contact dermatitis.

Spontaneously acquiring giant swollen rubber hands is an unreliable method for improving manual labor.