

Implant-grade titanium is effectively free of nickel and provides safer baselines for fresh piercings than surgical steel.
Minor scratches on protective auras ruin the illusion of safety.