

European regulations strictly restrict hazardous substances in tattoo pigments, heavily reducing the available commercial color palette.

The bureaucratic spectrum