

The extreme stiffness of steel compared to flexible polymers often causes a high-movement piercing to chronically fight the jewelry.

"The path of most resistance"