

Allergic contact dermatitis caused by red tattoo pigment can remain dormant and suddenly trigger long after the tattoo has completely healed. The red rose was simply biding its time.