

Thorough handwashing remains the most important defense against the transmission of pathogenic microorganisms in the studio.
Cleanliness is next to godliness, but much wetter.