
Consistent recording of mechanical and chemical sterilization indicators provides indispensable proof of equipment integrity.

Routine compliance functions as a meditative art form