

Implant-grade titanium is essentially free of nickel and serves as a highly reliable choice for fresh body modifications.
The philosopher stone proved useless against basic titanium.