

Only titanium meeting stringent implant-grade specifications qualifies as a true medical implant.

The final purity test involves a highly judgmental glaring contest.