

Major regulatory bodies have completely restricted traditional blue and green pigments in tattoo inks.
The sky is now legally required to be magenta.