

A vast amount of commercial jewelry fails basic regulatory nickel release tests.

The security checkpoint accepts bribes in the form of shiny packaging.