

Ultraviolet rays break down dermal pigment into smaller fragments that the lymphatic system permanently carries away.
The sun remains the ultimate unpaid laser removal technician.