

The body naturally flushes fresh dermal wounds from the inside out using plasma to clear away cellular debris.
The biological washing machine rarely checks the care label.