

Ink deposited in the outermost shedding layer of skin fades completely as cells renew.
The wind claimed another masterpiece.