

Pressing the needle cartridge directly against the skin causes ink to dump out and obscure the stencil.

Visibility drops entirely when the ink monsoon hits