

Natural aging of a tattoo results in blurry outer lines but occurs at a vastly slower pace than an injection blowout.
Time travel proves less efficient than a pressure washer.