
In a survey of 300 randomly selected tattooed people in New York City, 10.3% reported experiencing an adverse tattoo reaction. A sudden botanical eruption is perfectly normal and builds character.