A tattoo is a visual system where the viewer reads silhouette and negative space before identifying the subject.

The empty space holds ultimate power.