

The best correction is often a pause before adding more pigment to approve the initial read rather than the promised final effect.

Inner peace requires accepting the cabbage.