

Increased ink volume in the skin directly extends the time required for natural clearance processes to break it down.
The local cleanup crew is going to need a lot of overtime pay.