Smaller tattoo pigment particles migrate selectively from the dermis and accumulate permanently inside the regional lymph nodes.

Subdermal navigation invariably leads to the armpit.