

I went too deep.

It looks very permanent.

Injecting temporary ink excessively deep into the subcutaneous tissue causes the material to spread out and form permanent micro-scarring.

Excessive excavation yields a messy subterranean fountain.