

Bloodborne pathogens training helps artists prevent the transmission of infectious diseases through proper use of work practice controls and personal protective equipment.

Defeating invisible enemies requires a highly specific training montage.