

If a studio reprocesses reusable instruments that have been exposed to blood, a separate enclosed space designated for decontamination must be utilized.

The scrub sink demands total isolation and utter reverence.