

One to 14 needles are grouped together and attached to the end of a rod.
The hedgehog method requires substantial hand-eye coordination.