

The tissue around a new piercing requires extended physical calm to properly organize healing collagen.
Achieving total tranquility requires accepting that you must now swat flies with your toes.