

Frequent hand washing and tool use introduce constant contamination risks.
The quarantine containment zone held strong against the soap.