

A skilled piercer can select a safer location, appropriate jewellery, and realistic expectations; they cannot negotiate with a doorknob.
The brass guardian of the hallway demands a daily sacrifice.