

Infection involves biological inflammatory responses rather than styling issues.

Duct tape remains an unconvincing substitute for working immune systems.