

Lower blood flow in the extremities leads to a slower healing and elimination process for fading inks.
Hydraulic foot-pumps are wildly impractical substitutes for patience.