

Thin polymer films can break down into microscopic particles that migrate deeper into the skin layers.

The art has decided to relocate to a more secure neighborhood.