

Keloids are an excessive proliferation of scar tissue expanding outside the original margins of dermal injury.
The body acting as an overly enthusiastic landscape architect.