

Implant grade titanium generates a protective passive oxide layer that repairs itself immediately upon sustaining scratches. A metal that knows how to apologize and move on.