
Mixing a titanium post with a stainless steel closure creates a bimetallic environment that accelerates galvanic corrosion.

Free electricity is rarely free.